

Prior to getting covid my husband William had a bad sinus infection and had not made it to the doctor to get an antibiotic. December 6th my family took covid test it was positive. My son, myself recovered within 7 days. William still had the runny nose, NO fever NO coughing could smell. I knew it was sinus infection got onto his lungs he had this several times before. William oxygen low 85. Called Fire Department they came gave him oxygen went up to 99 in a minute, recommended I take him to hospital.

I took him to hospital told them William needed an antibiotic for sinus, busy from work hadn't gone to doctor. His Sinus went into his lungs. William has had this before. Requested a covid test to PROVE he no longer had covid. Hospital did order covid test, but NEVER gave it per medical records.

Didn't know they were giving him morphine till later on and told them to stop. William received his first antibiotic per medical records today.

12-21 second visit 2:30 PM no more fever. Still drugged up.

12-22 2:45 AM woke me up said William needs to be VENTED second request he will not make through the night. Scared and not fully awake I said OK.
