

On October 18th I was admitted to a hospital in Batavia New York.

Because I was unvaccinated patient with covid they treated me with contempt and anger. I was scared for my life. The doctors, the nurses and the person checking me in, who was so angry with me left my room without even giving me my ID bracelet and checking me in, when the following day a nurse who was supposed to take my blood asked me where my ID bracelet was? I told her they never officially checked me in, a few hours later they came up and had me sign paperwork which I found out later backdated my admittance to the following day!

The doctors refused to give me real pain medication...I had extreme headache pain, where I couldn't even function! There was three doctors who saw me and on my second night one of them came in and gave me morphine which helped me. The following day only 2 doctors and the one who helped me was not with them. I asked where he was and they told me he had to leave! The nurse taking care of me flipped out and started screaming at me when I told her I was in so much pain and needed something and said I was responsible for people dying, slamming down what she had in her hands and she's not taking care of me anymore and left! I was so scared, I called my daughter and told her what was happening to me and get me out of there before they kill me. She called the administrator of hospital who came in and tried to calm me down and apologized! This is just part of how I was treated by the people working there! Because of this I suffer from PTSD and don't trust the people who are supposed to care for me!

I contacted NYS Disiplinary board to investigate them and he came back to me and said the nurse was sorry but under alot of pressure, blah blah blah and he wasn't moving forward!

I was never so scared in my whole life being treated by the people who were supposed to be caring for you! It was a very real nightmare! Every day there was a struggle to survive!
